It is reported that Collector Darien states that the Wanderer bears no traces of having had slaves on board. The""Republican" says that it is rumoured that the Africans were landed at Jekely Island, and that a steamer which left Savannah, took on board one hundred and fifty and conveyed them past Savannah to the river plantations, where they have been scattered through the country. The cargo is supposed to have consisted of 350 negroes The Wanderer hails from St. Helena, but is without regalar papers, there having been no Consul there; but she has informal papers from native officials with seals.

Q. Did the American officers who boarded you outide the harbor make an examination of your hold?

Mr. King, executive officer of the Washington, who esent, then remarked that if they wished any further information, they could obtain it from the American men-of-war then in port. The officer replied that his instructions were to obtain
